Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 3, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Join us in the blessed places where worries are forgotten, leaving room for the peace of the soul, for this very special state that is not easily attained. There lies the real beauty, that which delights the heart and brings serenity to the whole being. In their complexity, human beings do not usually manage to make sense of things. They allow themselves to be diverted by the multiple problems of life. It is not always easy to face up to these things; love is the true remedy, a love that is called upon and acquired more, or less, quickly depending on the strength of one's yearning. It is said that trials are formative — this is a fact, and how would it be if there were no good reason for trials, which are brought on when necessary? Here, surrender is advisable. Divine laws are not accessible to human beings, who are currently limited. This is understandable to a certain extent.

The best to all. Our dear abhyasis are blessed and strengthened.
