Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, April 3, 2017 — 10:00 a.m.

When the time has come for harmony on Earth and peace between peoples, a single system will be established that will lead this world to an unprecedented progress. That which does not seem possible today will be so tomorrow; the higher powers go in the right direction and avoid, as needed, the difficulties deriving from many irreversible mistakes of the past. Substantial changes will occur to facilitate the integration of the human being into a unique system of living. Everything is being put into place slowly, adapting itself as best as possible to what is offered to us by this world — one that is still very limited with respect to its accession to the world of the Spirit. The latter world cannot easily open itself up to the multitude who are not yet prepared for such a step. The elements are being set up slowly, yet very satisfactorily. Life in the future will reveal many surprises; human beings will have to adapt to climatic changes that will be unprecedented but conducive to an ultimate and brilliant transformation. Everything will be fine — you can be sure of that.

This is how it is.
