Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 22, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

Let your heart vibrate; immerse yourself in this ocean of love that delights it. The way is there; without this kind of love what would a spiritual journey be? Steadfastness and rigour are necessary in this process, but without this capacity to love where would true joy lie, that which transports the soul and opens the sacred door? In this matter, only the heart is king, it holds the power in many respects. Each person progresses in their own way; simplicity is sovereign here where only total commitment leads the soul to bliss.

Many brothers and sisters are making progress, each in their own way and according to their innermost aspirations. Nothing can be forced; we show the way and all advance according to their call. What is more beautiful, more enriching spiritually, than this complete surrender to the Master reinforced by a teaching adapted to the call of the seeker. All our books were written accordingly. With these messages, we have entered a new era: that of a spontaneous teaching which meets the expectations of today's seeker.

This world is in disarray: many humans are going astray. A non-dogmatic spiritual way can help a lot. May the greatest number participate in this feast of the Spirit — it is the absolute nourishment of great beings; such is our wish.

Blessings.
