Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, August 7, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

These echoes concerning the messages are positive; the daily dissemination of the messages allows many receptive hearts to better perceive them. More and more, they will become part of the daily life of our brothers and sisters. Our very dear son Parthasarathi, in his great wisdom, has made the right decision. With the passing years, we see our brothers and sisters progressing — imperceptibly, and yet very satisfactorily. Most of them manage to combine material and spiritual life, which is not always easy in this world that is so disturbed and, for the greatest number of people, far, so far away from such values. Our long-time faithful aspirants can sense significant changes within, even if certain aspects of character are still prominent in their behaviours. Advancing at all costs and following one's Master with confidence, respect, and love opens the doors one by one so that, one day, one can glimpse what the most committed seeker manages to see. The ultimate goal is the culmination of a process; the many people who follow us to varying degrees have made this choice, and they are advancing at their own pace, yet definitively. The commitment of the most ardent heart provides a beneficial energy. Love begets love — we cannot remain indifferent to this expectation; it yields benefits, whose importance cannot be assessed by human beings. Blessed are the pure in heart, sincere and fully committed; celestial pathways are open to them under our constant blessings.
