Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, August 24, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

These messages touch so many hearts and help them in their everyday lives. Isn't this a wonderful result, one that is able to motivate us here? The spiritual impact of the messages can be significant, otherwise why would they be given! Nothing is to be neglected in such an approach.

Today's humans live in a disturbing environment where they are affected by so many types of pollution, most of which are undetectable. That is the price to pay for this so-called modern life, whose high technology benefits us here; this is worth emphasising. This means of communication is a significant element in our Mission, even if we lament the negative impact of its pollution on human beings. We can only admit the facts and take advantage in our own way of what is available today; tomorrow, we will see. Our purpose here is to reach the largest number of our brothers and sisters and to help them lead their lives, progress and glimpse what a spiritual journey can offer them beyond materiality.

An incarnation is short compared to the long journey of the soul in the world of the Spirit. This world opens up perspectives of which so many people are unaware. Certain civilisations, more sensitive than others to this aspect of life, have always emphasised the importance of acting accordingly and not neglecting what contributes to the elevation of the subtle being. Our way offers many possibilities; it is up to each person to seize this opportunity and advance as best they can according to their personal request.
