Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, September 13, 2012 — 8:00 a.m.

Is there anything more beautiful for us than a fervent appeal from a heart fully offered? Practice and discipline are of great importance, but this kind of love is essential; without it, this approach would not be the same. The heart is the supreme refuge; there lies the mystery of life in all its forms — material and, especially, spiritual. The heart is a sacred island where the miracles of the Spirit are accomplished. Our method emphasises this aspect of things. How could we overlook such an asset? Still, one must be aware of it. Knowledge, in the current state of affairs, does not consider this essential aspect of spirituality. An approach like the one we offer operates fully at this level; a day will come when the discovery of this reality will amaze people. A precursor — such is this path leading to the noblest of goals: that of the heart, this seat of the soul and many aspects still unknown to human beings, especially in this area that is so special for human evolution. Precursors have never had an easy task: they should not surprise or shock in advancing so many great truths still ignored in this current era. Gradually, open-minded people will awaken to this knowledge that is capable of revealing life in all its magnitude and its repercussions at different levels of consciousness, capable of producing in space these islets of vibrational purity and love. The teachings we provide here are followed on other planes of life; this is truly significant and appreciated.

To all, our blessings.
