Whispers from The Brighter World

The festival of hearts is that which is produced within them by love. This love manifests in various ways. Here, we are in a special register, one that is beyond the common manifestations [of love] in the life of humans. This love cannot be defined; it is experienced intensely when a thirsting soul transports the being beyond the human condition. With time and each one's evolution, this thirst grows and permeates the space offered by a burning heart. Therein lies the supreme refuge; human beings, as they progress in life, realise it fully when they are willing to follow this liberating path. When the time comes for this reality to impose itself, the seeker can see the difference. For him or her, nothing compares with this quest for the Divine, whose approach is unique and offered to each person according to their inner disposition. Time is short here below; beyond this world, everything is noticed and is recorded in the ledgers of time. These ledgers are of paramount importance since they recount everything that emanates from the being, down to the smallest behaviours.

Our system of 'cleaning' offers a way to free oneself from what weighs down and hinders one's progress. This fact is important: advancement also entails getting rid of what is useless, the heaviness inherent in this world of matter where it is not easy for a human being to move towards perfection. We are helping each one appropriately and with the means we have, and we see many souls rising and approaching the sacred shores, which are blessed among all. It is up to each one to become aware of a necessity that sooner or later will be revealed to them. The best to all — from the united Masters.
