Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, November 21, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Be at peace against all odds. Our Mission is advancing; isn't that the main thing – and these messages contribute to it. Blessed are the simple and generous hearts that give out of love and are detached from this world in its negative aspects. From this world there emerge, nonetheless, many good things for a humanity that is both fragile and strong. Good and evil coexist, and our spiritual way stands out by the grace of the divine powers that are attentive to the future of this planet. Major changes will occur in the future; men and women will have to reconsider their values and understand the need to progress. This work remains to be done, as many beings still regard life with a view that is very much limited to matter. The many subtleties that characterise life are yet to be discovered by most human beings. Slowly, over the centuries, the world has been opening up to knowledge; unfortunately, this knowledge remains limited by and large to material objectives. Regardless, the reality is there: open minds are progressing, thereby determining what tomorrow will be. A time will come here below when beings will literally be transformed, both physically and spiritually.

These comments may surprise, even shock; humans are so fragile faced with this approach to reality. Have we not said here time and again that "what must be will be"? Blessed are those who are open-minded and receptive to a truth that is still so well hidden from the eyes of humans. This truth will prevail one day, and it will be crucial for their evolution.

Blessings to all.
