Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 26, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

To love – to love at this level – is the most precious asset of a lifetime. Incarnations go by; they leave traces at the human level, temporary bonds that are strong to a greater or lesser degree, but what truly remains and develops the being on his or her path to the Eternal is this love. Of the many actions in one's life, none is in vain; some of them help seekers advance, reinforcing their commitment. A spiritual way like ours offers numerous possibilities, the extent of which many of our aspirants do not realise.

Having a living Master is a very rare opportunity given to today's humans. Time is running out, hence the need to offer seekers what is decisive for real progress in this area. Understanding the need to act accordingly and to devote oneself to this system for one's own benefit denotes a certain wisdom. Many great and beautiful souls have understood the importance of this way. It is advancing and winning over hearts in its own way in order to lead them to the reality of real life. The latter is far beyond human concepts; regardless, our abhyasis feel in themselves the work being done, discreetly but effectively, over time. Certain human characteristics persist; they are attributes of past lives and much effort is required to be free of them. Thus is a being fulfilled in his or her quest for perfection. This challenge is most promising; it uplifts seekers and strengthens them in their quest.

Nothing is easy here below, as elsewhere, but efforts are important and, above all, they are counted and appreciated. Each one has his or her own journey and faith in the elevation of the soul. As for the goal to be reached, our way provides for it; its divine guide has that power. This is how it is. May all be strengthened and enlightened.

Babuji