Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 14, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

We have come a long way with these messages; more and more, our brothers and sisters are nourished by them. They are realising the opportunity offered them to benefit from such a teaching, one that is a precursor of times to come. We need to move forward; the new era is dawning on the horizon and we cannot continue to ignore it. A spiritual way cannot be confined to the past; it must equally open up to knowledge, to what is, and also to what will be. Preparing people's minds for future times is logical. These writings will endure, and they will have to be aligned with the evolution of human beings confronted with a reality that they cannot imagine today. Many still reject the principle of reincarnation. Our aspirants are out ahead of these limitations. They are in tune with reality and they accept this principle of communication that has existed since the dawn of time, but which is, alas, still denied by many. We have already pointed this out: all sacred scriptures partake of this principle.

Our abhyasis want to advance and to understand the true meaning of life; reincarnation is a major aspect of that. Hiding the truth and stagnating are not in line with the primary principle. It is time for us to seize a rare opportunity, that of rising above the material world and advancing in knowledge. A substantial open-mindedness will allow us to go further and to combine the work on the self with the effects of the incarnate Master's transmission. This principle is not widely known; blessed are those who take full advantage of it. It is, you can be sure, a rare opportunity in this world. Time is precious; may all truly become aware of it and make the most of it, with ardour.
