Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, December 15, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Long is the way, but all these efforts bear fruit. Seeing a soul awaken to the divine splendour is an unparalleled joy. Imagine the heavenly gardener witnessing the blooming of the most beautiful flower. Our Mission is growing and spreading, which encourages us to move forward and to shake up our abhyasis somewhat with comments that are likely to surprise them.

We need to go step by step, but steadily, and speak about this future that will see major changes occur, thus contributing to an overall evolution. An expansion of consciousness is desired. Our candidates must work on themselves and get past their egotistical tendencies; these seriously hinder their evolution. We cannot solve everything in this matter; everyone must make an effort to adjust themselves to behaviours that can foster surrender to the Divine, to its numerous manifestations, all of them appropriate to the needs of spiritual advancement. The Master operates at the highest level; abhyasis should be able to master their weaknesses and turn them into a force capable of transforming their own destiny. Nothing is achieved without effort, and grace always manifests at the opportune moment. The school of life does not in any way violate the divine laws; all must go through very difficult times in order to better identify their true potential. Opening one's heart to this splendour shows a deep and sincere call; this call attracts our hearts, along with our vigilance in supporting the seeker in this noble advancement.

Everything comes at the appropriate time; chance does not exist – an opportunity is offered to a person when his or her destiny so permits, and this can totally change one's life. May all be blessed and strengthened.
