Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 21, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

When the time for deliverance has come, many souls will follow us on a path that is out of the ordinary. It is already manifesting on Earth, without taking on its full vigour – that concerns the higher planes, until the moment when the vibration of this world becomes significantly refined. Then ways of living will change, and human structures as well; that will be the starting point of a new world relieved of a negativity that is totally excessive. Life here below will be organised differently. Many conquests will need to be made; these will be of a completely different order than those of this old world where true values are not particularly sought after. Everything will have to be reconsidered; structures will no longer be the same, and many elements will leave humans astonished by their subtlety. Other objectives will have to be achieved; a finer state of consciousness will occur over time in order to reach another destination. Thus, everything will be able to change, and humanity will move towards what is good. There is so much to do. With their current genes, humans cannot cross the imposed limit.

All these comments may seem unreal; these concepts are not easily discussed in a world currently limited to matter. Higher principles are yet to be discovered here below. That time will come. These messages themselves will live beyond these transitional periods and remain a reference over time. That time may seem incongruous to naysayers, but unlike them, these writings will endure through time. That is how it goes; blessed are those who appreciate them, under our blessings.
