Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 23, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

You are heard, my daughter. Aren't we always attentive to your heart? Therein is accomplished the wonder: this extraordinary contact with our hearts. This goes well beyond these lines, and it already foreshadows your future life – one that will be fulfilling in many respects, including spirituality of course. From life to life, the story is connected; one incarnation already prepares another – that is how it is. Blessed are those who are working for the good in our Mission and respecting the Master in his decisions and his actions, meant to serve a major spiritual path in a great way. Everything in this journey of a being is recorded, retained and counted; it is comforting to know this and to act with the full awareness of the good or bad that can be generated by events, and even by words. We are not moralists; we just want to draw the attention of our aspirants to the fact that a commitment of this nature entails some degree of surrender for one to truly move towards the ultimate goal.

It is often necessary to re-examine and challenge oneself. The human being can frequently go astray; egotistical reactions are often very harmful and can distort and spoil an entire journey. It is up to each one to be vigilant and attentive to their practice, to the thoughts that drive them, when those thoughts can darken their life story. We want the best for our aspirants; we follow them step by step, both the new and the old. All have our attention, and we expect the best from them. Anything likely to jeopardise their progress must be rejected. Isn't it the goal of such an approach to go ever more towards a beauty conducive to realisation? May all achieve it.
