Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, March 15, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

What is more beautiful than a heart totally offered to the Divine! There, what all incarnate beings aspire to is realised, whether they are conscious or not of the grace that befalls them. True mystics are able to overcome the grossness of this world by guarding against it as much as possible, in order to fully commit themselves to their path. Various means are available to seekers; so many criteria are to be considered here. A real call always finds a way to express itself and to carry a heart towards the Master who awaits it.

Sahaj Marg is given to today's humans to enable them to take a step for which they have been preparing themselves – often for a long time, without really being aware of it. Life is full of surprises. Who has not experienced troubling times that enabled them to become aware of their own reality? Whatever happens, events and tests are phases in one's life that are often constructive. Everything actually has its raison d'être. Can a path free of difficulties make humans aware of their true destiny? Most realise this fragility, as they are caught in the turmoil of everyday life.

Following a spiritual way shows a deep motivation, supported in part by these considerations. A seeking heart always manages to come forth, even if the environment and the circumstances are not especially favourable.

Fortunate are the beings whose innermost aspirations are fulfilled; they achieve what many among them, for a number of reasons, are not even aware of. Our abhyasis are on the way, the right way, since such results appear to us here, filling us to the highest degree. Our love to all those who call for it, along with our constant support.
