Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, August 10, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Divest yourself of all that is useless, of these human turbulences that are inevitable, even on a spiritual path. We do not have a magic wand to change the behaviour of our aspirants. This is very unfortunate, but true; we cannot act on all levels. The character traits that many of them have acquired remain difficult to combat. Only spiritual evolution helps in this matter, allowing the aspirant, over time, to transcend his or her own tendencies. Nobody is perfect. If it were otherwise, that would be known. All the Great Beings who have left their mark on this world have had to struggle with some aspects of their personality.

It is beautiful and comforting to witness a soul opening up to reality; it is like a flower blooming under the rays of sunshine that bring it to fullness. Following a spiritual path where real work is done at all levels is an opportunity to be seized in an incarnation. To varying degrees, time is running out for everyone, but the allotted time deserves the utmost consideration and a sufficient effort to achieve what is possible for each one. The longing of the soul determines one's behaviour, one's need to move forward towards this conquest of the sovereign spirit. With effort and by the grace of the living Master, each well-informed and persevering aspirant can achieve the best.

This cannot be assessed in human terms, and that is the way it should be. Everyone's treasure remains hidden from the eyes of others who have no awareness of those values.

Blessings to all.
