Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 14, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

These messages are, and will remain, the one and only true emanation of our united hearts. It will take time before all our aspirants discover and assimilate the thousands of messages accumulated so far. May all enjoy them without reservation and advance in the proper way. Everything is being done in our path to provide the broadest possible range of elements capable of promoting the progress of each one.

Sahaj Marg is growing, and so is the egregore it represents. The scope of Sahaj Marg goes well beyond the material world, and this is a major asset. God's ways have many resources and manifestations at different levels of consciousness. Humans benefit from these messages, but they are not the only ones to do so – we will not go further into this matter. Humanity has priority in benefitting from them. Such is the objective, but nothing is limited to this world, especially when a spiritual way like ours broadens its action more and more – imperceptibly, yet surely. What is good for humans constitutes an important asset; tough times ahead will see humans return to more just values. They will become aware of the transience of things, of all that is illusory in the material dimension.

Everything is counted: time, actions, and even thoughts when they are not right. It is up to each one to do what is necessary to truly move forward and make the most of the work being done in a spiritual path like this.

The best to all, under our constant blessings.
