Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 28, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Love is a vast subject. The love we are talking about here cannot be defined in human language. It knows no limits; it is as immense as the whole of creation. This is a very subtle and indefinable energy, as its power is beyond human understanding. Experiencing it, however limited this experience may be, transforms a person's life. Following a spiritual path centred on the heart – the centre point of any endeavour of this kind – opens up perspectives on the Infinite and marks the beginning of a true personal journey, one whose outcomes are highly rewarding.

There would be so much to say on the subject; all we can do here is talk about the power of action that characterises love without really going into what love can actually generate. Its power is great; it operates at all levels of consciousness and can transform a being who is truly committed to such an approach. What would life be without this flame that can transform it and set a fervent heart ablaze! Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see the light; there lies the centre point of a human being – within, in this divine stronghold where the best can develop. To love in this way is the true purpose of a life. May all our brothers and sisters achieve it, truly understanding the meaning of these words and advancing in this sanctifying way of love.
