Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 23, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Here we do not intend to be literary; our words are simple and they must keep this characteristic. Our objective is to touch hearts and open the doors onto a sacred space favourable to their evolution. So many aspects are to be considered in a spiritual process: opening the way, fostering aspiration for the Divine, and continuously providing elements capable of touching hearts in their quest – one whose effects are so very rewarding. This kind of approach bears fruit far beyond the current incarnation. Each incarnation receives according to the call of the heart and the fervour it engenders.

Nothing is lost here in this very special process. Blessed and strengthened are hearts that are eager to love and serve. Our beautiful and great Mission needs them. It is not in vain that they are abhyasis; they can believe this, as their commitment bears fruit much more than they imagine. The divine power operates in its own way, in secrecy. It is said that the pure in heart will see the light. They can be convinced of it and advance fervently in this way of the heart that is so special in its effects. Everyone is supported and assisted according to their call. May all remain motivated and confident in their approach; they will reap the fruits of it, carried by our love.
