Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 2, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Communicating through mind and spirit as we do here is uncommon, one must even say unique; the number of these messages is itself impressive. It is not just about putting words on paper, but rather capturing all the subtlety of this contact, a subtlety that unfolds for the reader, who unwittingly – we might say – perceives it, according to his or her surrender to the transmission.

So many things can be accomplished in secrecy; the way of the heart has assets that are not revealed on the material plane. This is precisely its strength and the reason for the results it produces in beings who are very sensitive to its action. All benefit from it according to their longing to unite with the Divine. Everyone has their own potential, to which is added the work of the incarnate Master and the extensions of that work through a practice that includes the action of preceptors trained to retransmit what we give them for the circumstance. None of this is easy to understand, but the results are there, and they do not change over time.

This spiritual path is willed by the higher powers, who have always acted according to the general evolution of beings and their ability to receive and retransmit as required. These writings are a part of this rich heritage, and they will remain a very important asset for our Mission; time will clarify all of this. May each of our abhyasis fully benefit from what we offer them.
