Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 9, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

The ways of God are manifold, but they all lead to the same goal. The depth of commitment, the love it arouses, allows for a considerable advancement. This power of love is decisive. Reason is not enough – its arguments do not have the same effect and depth. When the heart is touched by grace, the aspirant understands where to find the necessity for action.

An incarnation passes very quickly in the face of eternity; what does it mean in the present moment? Time is truly counted. Every day offers the opportunity to advance, to understand the true meaning of life. There is so much effort to be made, but every bit of it 'pays off', one might say. Taking a spiritual path reveals a certain openness of mind; all is grace indeed, and the many trials humans must face are necessary for their evolution. The Greatest Beings have never been spared – such are the laws of life.

There is much to understand. Seeing with the heart prevents judgements, not to mention the resentment they can spark. To criticise is to dirty oneself. May all become aware of this and take notice. Life is not easy, and every step is decisive. Reaching the goal is, and will long remain, the essential objective. Everything is counted; it is up to everyone to act as best they can. May all our aspirants progress and arrive at the goal. That is our wish and the motive for our unceasing action.
