Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, February 14, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

All these warm-hearted letters give you an insight into the impact these writings have on hearts – and this is only the beginning, you can be sure. Everything happens slowly in this world, as we said often enough; these messages are progressing at their own pace, but they will defy time. Thus is it written. They are to be respected – oh so highly – and, after much turmoil, they will remain the hallmark of our Mission. As with everything in this world, it takes a long time for such truths to find their real place.

Blessed are the hearts that respect their Master's wishes and decisions; they will not regret it, since everything is inscribed on the heavenly register. We try to give the best to our abhyasis, yet no one is spared here below. Sooner or later the rules of life manifest, impressing their laws on each one's destiny. Blessed are those who go beyond materiality, beyond everyday life – with all its restrictive aspects – to somehow evade these contingencies and rise towards a more in-depth quest for the divine manifestation within themselves. Becoming aware of this power, of what it can bring about now and beyond this life, denotes a certain wisdom.

Many of our abhyasis have already made very compelling progress – are they really aware of it! One cannot easily assess this achievement oneself; the essential thing is to persevere and move forward, against all odds, towards the ultimate goal. Here, more than anywhere else, one's actions are important. Everything is taken into account and contributes to one's advancement. The rules are inescapable – anything is possible when it is generated by divine grace. This is how it is.
