Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, February 28, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Each of the planets is different, with many features that make it possible to distinguish one from another – just like human beings, who have significant differences, even though they are similar in some respects. The entire creation is surprisingly diverse in its material aspect, and divine powers orchestrate this enormous creation. Why? How? What are the true reasons for all this? Humans will never get to the bottom of the mystery. Everyone interprets in their own manner; religions and spiritual paths differ, but they actually head in the same direction. Perfection is not of this world; will it ever be? Let us hope so, but what would the world be like in that case? Surrendering to the Divine, following one's path as well as one can, and not harming one's neighbour – such will be the real transformation of humanity. So much violence and baseness characterise humanity today. Some behaviours sadden us; on this particular point, our path is not spared – it is no different from others. Human beings remain as they are, with their tendencies and their weaknesses, but also their good sides. We work in this direction: refining the spiritual centres, the key points in an approach of this kind. The results are not blatantly obvious, but you can be sure they exist, and this is very encouraging. We do not work in vain. The incarnate spiritual Master partially administers our energies; his action is tremendous and it concretises what is to be, here on Earth, for the good of humanity. May all be strengthened and blessed.
