Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, April 12, 2014 – 10:00 a.m. ove lights the path; the true mystics look to it and live it intensely. Are they truly aware of its power? Granting it its rightful place opens the doors of bliss. It holds all powers; graces are ascribed to it. Do abhyasis truly realise the strength of this sacred power? Do they grant it the place it is due, even in a life otherwise very full? All this is compatible; one only has to want it and make room for what is essential and enduring beyond this incarnation.

A vast refuge is offered to seekers. Once they really find it, they are won over and they continue on their way with joy in their hearts. This little-known heart, unique in its effects, extends well beyond this world. Humans cannot understand all its subtleties, which remain for them to discover, as far as possible. The mystery of creation is, and will remain for a long time, inaccessible to humans. The important thing is to advance spiritually, to understand – however little it may be – the purpose of uniting with the Divine. Giving precedence to this unique quest enables the entity to progress on its initiatory journey. All have this faculty. They just have to want it and to develop love within themselves, this love that sublimates the being and opens one up to a serenity that transcends everything. Love is and will remain the magic key. All possess it; one has only to know this and to understand love's subtlety. We wish this awakening for all – we are working towards it.
