Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, April 19, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

In the future, many things will change here below, where an unprecedented transformation will occur. The transmission of divine energy will take place differently and be very active in its manifestation. This world will advance considerably and will hopefully yield another level in the evolution of consciousness. Many changes will occur; everything is pre-planned in this direction, and so has it always been; life on Earth must adapt to an established order prevailing in the universe. Nothing is done without reason, and the order of things must be respected. Planet Earth is only one link in an immense chain where divine laws are constantly manifesting. Everything is willed, planned for, and happens in its own time. The human being follows the movement of life and nothing more; a person must put up with what his or her life holds.

Spirituality is and will remain an essential aspect in this world. It will prevail in the future as an absolute necessity. The vibrations will be different and effective in their primary principle, which will bring a favourable vibration here below – one that will be very desirable for everyone. May these times come soon and provide humans with what they lack today for blossoming harmoniously in a satisfactory vibrational environment. Our abhyasis are longing to know and to be given a minimum of details about what the future holds for them. Why would we not provide this information, insofar as some can be given to them, to meet a justifiable request? May the best happen for everyone and for the good of suffering humanity.
