Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, July 7, 2014 – 11:00 a.m.

Do our abhyasis know the principle of surrender? What Sahaj Marg will become in future times should not worry them. We mention upcoming changes and transformations within our Mission, but many of our abhyasis will not witness them; much time will have to pass before then. Furthermore, everything is already planned in the smallest detail and will take place suitably for the good of this Mission and all our brothers and sisters. Why do they dwell so much on what will come about much later? Isn't the present the most important thing – now, when all have so much to do personally to truly advance and prepare appropriately for the pursuit of their personal journey? Interiorisation, a scrupulous work, should lead them to a higher level where light will naturally dawn upon them, without their stumbling over matters that have little bearing on them personally.

All we can say here is this: what is important is falling into place; nothing is left out concerning plans for the future, and therefore for the future of our Mission. Its radiance will spread throughout the world to an extent one cannot imagine at present, when darkness continues to limit minds to old beliefs devoid of common sense. A day shall come when other perspectives will have to be considered. All is well, let everyone be assured; they are so very blessed!
