Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 13, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Birthday celebrations are important in a life, some more than others; they are significant milestones, sometimes decisive for one's orientation. In Sahaj Marg, it is fitting to honour the Masters. All deserve particular attention and should be celebrated appropriately. These special days are meant to bring our brothers and sisters together and allow them to commune in respect and love for the Master. None of these days should be forgotten, ever; they represent privileged moments in a way like ours. Working towards the cohesion of this path and its development in the world is the best asset there is.

Each person's determination is important; our brothers and sisters who are motivated and doing their best are a positive and creative force. Blessed are all the faithful and motivated hearts – in a certain way, they are carried. Doesn't everything have its raison d'être! A life is short compared to eternity. Working for the good in the service of a beautiful and great cause makes it worthwhile to live and to take responsibility when faced with the difficulties of existence. We will not cease repeating this: here, love must be cultivated, it must be the primary motivation. Blessed are those who understand the profound reason for this commitment which sheds a special light on an incarnation. Here the best is accomplished. May all be carried and blessed.

Babuji