Wednesday, June 7, 2000 - 10:30 a.m.

(Looking at Babuji's photo in front of me in meditation and seeing the upper part of his face in relief is an impressive experience.)

No, you are not dreaming, I am here. Words are superfluous. You should content yourself with this experience. Rise above the worries of this world. Let your heart delight in the grace you receive. It extends to the brown-headed children you carry in your heart as well as this daughter so close to yours who is courageously going through a painful test."

Babuji