Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, September 13, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

After this long journey of messages, serenity and serenity alone should prevail here in these writings, given for a specific purpose: to help our brothers and sisters in a different way. Without exception, all are able to quench their thirst here; different means are put at their disposal for this purpose. My dearest and very great son quickly understood, from their beginning, the importance these messages would take on in this Mission, and as he has so well emphasised, they have often inspired him. The higher voices know what they are doing; their goal here is in this register: to help human beings progress in their quest for the Divine. Very deep down, each one yearns for that, even if all do not take this into account; so many beautiful souls, for their part, are advancing and becoming stronger in this process.

Nothing is in vain here, even on a page like this one where such words may seem trivial. Everything is counted, you can be sure; we are working for the good of all. Each in his or her measure is nourished and over time develops more sensitive perceptions within. Perseverance is a great quality, a strength; without it, what would this world be today – a desert, probably. Humans have always struggled and persevered; there lies success in everything. Our brothers and sisters committed to this process prove it sufficiently.

Blessings to all.
