Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, December 10, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Everything that is done in this Mission has its purpose. Difficulties are necessary; it is up to each one to overcome them and to grow, going around them as best as possible, without any rancour. They enable human beings to grow – humans, so small in the face of adversity, no matter what their power may be in this world. Bliss does not yield success, one that is appropriate here, in this area where it is not the rule. Divine power operates at levels that are inaccessible to humans; they are so small before the Eternal. Grace works in its own way and it sometimes solves problems for which one saw no solution.

Our very dear and great son, your Master, is suffering, and it is not in vain. His very high-level mission on Earth had to finish in this way in order to reach the ultimate stage, the highest in human evolution. All is well for him in spite of appearances; he is so highly blessed by the gods. His light is already dazzling the world, and so will it be for a very long time. This is how it is!
