Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 1, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

We have called on you a great deal lately, my dear daughter. The current circumstances in the Mission required some singular interventions to reassure our brothers and sisters. We believe we have done so to the best of our ability, informing them that their Master was finally released from a painful situation on the material plane, to be reborn in a certain way among us, freed from the world of matter to return to the world of the Spirit, which is the apotheosis of a life so well lived.

Each of us brought to this Mission what was needed at the time. Our successor will do the same. His field of action will be very broad, but increasingly organised to manage the various worldly aspects of this most special path in full expansion. We will always be very attentive to the various elements whose importance is to be carefully considered. This blessed son will act appropriately; he has our complete trust, and his potential is equal to the task – we have no doubt about it.

This world is not simple, we have all experienced it, but embarking on such a path, in such a way, is a blessing like no other. We do not want to overtax you, dear scribe, be happy for your Master Parthasarathi and delighted to know that this dear Kamlesh, his successor, is ready to get down to work, managing this Great Work magnificently.

Very special blessings to all our brothers and sisters.
