Monday, February 9, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

The Mission is growing, and this will bring about changes in certain practices, including the sittings and, for the Master, the weddings and other events – all these will need to be adapted to present times and the growing number of abhyasis. This is only the beginning; progressively, new habits will have to be adopted, for the good of all. The powers of the incarnate Master will cover more and more ground to meet the needs of this rapidly growing Mission. Times are changing and this is just beginning; over time, reorganising the Mission on the material plane will become a necessity. Our dear Kamlesh has the necessary fibre, and we will guide him in due course.

Since the beginning, the Masters have adapted to circumstances – this is in the order of things – and their support remains available to their successors. A very broad view of situations is necessary to ensure the cohesion of this spiritual path on the material level, while scrupulously respecting the teachings of the previous Masters. In some way, they have made this Mission, and it must now adapt to the needs of the present. Our support is fully granted to the current Master. The task is getting heavier, and it will become increasingly necessary to respond to it; we have no doubt that this will be done in a masterly way. New arrangements will have to be made; we are encouraging them in our own manner.

May all work for the best, for their own welfare and especially that of the whole Mission, under our benevolent gaze.

Blessings.

Babuji