Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, March 3, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Live these unique moments with great delight; your heart rejoices in them beyond words. This oft-repeated ritual will have produced this unparalleled manna, appreciated by many of our brothers and sisters. These writings will remain over time the hallmark of Sahaj Marg, as intended by all of us here. Beyond their simplicity of approach, they operate in their own manner within all beings who imbibe them for their own good. Each one in his or her own way takes up this proposed spiritual work. To truly commit oneself changes the innermost personality and can unveil aspects of it not yet revealed. The beings of the future will be more receptive than they are today, so many important aspects of life will be revealed to them.

The profound nature of the human being has to change, to become more refined in order to enable a planned evolution so long and so dearly awaited by the great mystics. This will come – time does not have the same meaning on Earth as it does for us here. The multitude is bustling about in a register where materiality is law. This situation is very distressing, but it cannot be radically changed in this era of transition and preparation for a better world, one that is more refined and receptive to divine splendour than ever before. Everything is very slow here below. We have to adapt to it through our very special action. One day, the divine goal will be reached; is that not the most beautiful of challenges!

To all, our constant blessings.
