The winning over of hearts happens slowly on this Earth, as is the case for everything that lives and expresses itself in its own manner. The magnitude of creation is surprising; when studied in all its aspects, it reveals an infinite splendour. Divine power imposes no limits on itself: it creates, engenders, produces – what words can describe it!

The worlds differ; this one has its own characteristics, allowing human beings to follow a line of conduct in which their karma can manifest. Doesn't everything have its raison d'être! Doing what is best is not simple. So many difficulties impose themselves on all, confronting each one according to his or her path. No one can plan it in broad outlines; they surprise and often puzzle human beings, and constitute the baggage of the incarnate being in the face of this unparalleled power. Finding one's place in the context of life with its multiple facets is not easy. Great and beautiful souls succeed in this when they are carried in order to accomplish great things capable of helping humanity.

Long is this journey. Time here means nothing in the face of eternity; it is but an element of little importance. How many questions it gives rise to! Following a spiritual path allows one to situate oneself, to delve deeper into human reality, and above all to advance in this approach towards the Divine. How it enriches the human being! May all our aspirants realise it and explore this possibility more than ever.

Special blessings to all.
