Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, April 22, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Every day, a surge of love carries you here to us, and the ritual can begin. The union of hearts creates this aura conducive to the expression of our souls listening to the incarnate beings. So many of them are suffering. This suffering can have different facets. Which life is spared? It cannot be; karma is inescapable, it adorns each incarnation with benefits and multiple human experiences.

Such are the divine laws – they have their raison d'être, and the wise person progresses in his or her own manner. When one accepts the guidance of an incarnate spiritual Master, one saves valuable time. So many aspects here are to be considered: purity of intention, commitment of the heart, earnestness and – above all – love for the Master, who is supported by the Hierarchy of his peers, attentive to each of our faithful abhyasis. They are numerous, and none of them are ignored; all have our attention. What they are is known to us. We help them in the best possible way to advance, to progress towards the goal, by ridding themselves of what is useless. Good intentions are not lacking; we appreciate them and make sure that this Mission grows to help the greatest number of brothers and sisters in their call for the Divine. Our guidance saves them precious time.

To all the best, under our blessings.
