Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, May 29, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

This pencil comes alive each day according to our wishes, which still surprises you after so many years. Such an occurrence is not commonplace – it is inspired by an unprecedented love story.

It seems some 'messages' are being noted down elsewhere; they are not from us. Imitators exist in this field too, and it is good to clarify it once again. Over time, our messages will remain a reference for this Sahaj Marg Mission. This world of illusions requires a certain vigilance with respect to this; to search for one's path and to find it is a grace. This grace allows one to assert oneself in an uncommon journey, through which the best can take place for the benefit of the abhyasi. It takes a long time for a human being to understand the true purpose of life; having arrived at this stage, one can truly be committed. Certain experiences are sometimes necessary in order to better choose the path, the one that corresponds to the real aspirations of the soul. The stages to cross are numerous. Perseverance and action facilitate this journey, which does not happen in vain, everything being counted with the utmost rigour. Perfection does not exist here below, but good will can achieve great things, and we can happily see this over time.

May all do their best under the guidance of our dearest Kamlesh – vested with our powers, your new Master. Although he does not yet refer to himself as such, he has nevertheless become so, chosen thus by the will of the higher powers. This is the way it is.

Blessings to all.
