Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, June 23, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

There is a time for everything; the time of spiritual awakening marks a life. Everything then takes on a different meaning, and one's everyday life is transformed. The path of understanding, of tolerance, is long; it takes some time to admit one's own shortcomings and weaknesses and to address them sensibly. Nothing is easy, ever. Where would the challenge lie if there were no difficulties here below? From life to life a spiritual journey is carried out – of course, this happens once the soul has reached the level of Divine aspiration in its most productive phase. In this way of Sahaj Marg, motivated aspirants find what suits them; restraint and efficiency are necessary assets in these circumstances for advancing within the framework of an otherwise very busy life.

Here, only the call of the heart is significant. Sooner or later it makes itself felt and attracts the approach that suits it. Sometimes after one has made a few attempts elsewhere, Sahaj Marg presents itself, and it corresponds to the search in question. An incarnation is short in the face of the Eternal, and the Eternal holds many surprises. Great mystics of the past and present were not exactly set for such an approach. Grace acts in this way; it chooses, it prepares the becoming of the future aspirant to the point of leading him or her where necessary, when necessary, for his or her own fulfilment. To each their own destiny; it differs for everyone. The essential thing is to reach the most important point in a life: the opening of a spiritual space that is in keeping with the deep aspiration of the seeker. May all find the right path, one where the soul is rapturous in fervour.

Blessings to all.
