Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 2, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Everyone's life tells a story; is it acceptable to the person concerned? Some content themselves with what they have, others do not. It's all a question of acceptance, which is not always an easy matter. Following a spiritual path helps one clarify the situation and understand the why of things, particularly of trials that are heavy for some. Life is not a long tranquil river, and nothing is permanently acquired, ever. Surrendering oneself to the Divine denotes a potential allowing a glimpse of the beauty of the soul that motivates the being. From one life to the next a treasure is accumulated, which is invaluable when it allows one to reach a level of consciousness decisive in human evolution. Beautiful souls glory in serving, in loving this divine power that can achieve anything – even the unimaginable – for human beings so constricted within the limits of their understanding. The smartest being, the most mystical, cannot understand everything of the divine laws, which are so rigorous and beyond the reach of all. One day, it is said, the divine goal will be attained. Isn't this prospect sufficiently motivating; this concerns everyone.

May the effects of grace touch hearts in their innermost and most subtle depths to enable a gratifying advancement to the highest point. To all our brothers and sisters, peace and harmony in the heart, seat of all achievements.
