Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, November 4, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

This multitude of messages is primarily carried by a love story that has been going on for a very long time and is not fading – quite the contrary. Mediums are not lacking in the Mission, but what happens here is a different case altogether, one whose importance will be revealed over time. Do not be embarrassed; why couldn't we express ourselves on the subject, with so many abhyasis claiming to communicate with us and receive messages. We have said often enough that imitators exist, and it seems that there are more and more of them, here below and elsewhere; this peculiarity should be disregarded once and for all. Our dear Kamlesh will have to be careful about it. There is still so much to do for humanity to progress and for humans to realise that they have a long road ahead of them, and that there is no time to waste in vain endeavours and superfluous foolishness.

Here, we are working tirelessly for the good of this humanity that is in distress, much more than it seems. May all realise the need to move forward and produce, at their respective levels, the best that is possible. In this, faith and surrender are necessary; without them, nothing great and beautiful would be developed for the seeker, caught in the miasma of materiality.

Endless blessings to all.
