Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, November 10, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

An unprecedented mutation will have to occur on Earth to help this distressed humanity. It remains, after all, in constant torment and suffering – these states characterise it. This world is what it is; working for its evolution remains the challenge. This evolution will be decisive in the future, when it will stand out in the existing planetary context. Nothing is done in vain. All that takes place for the good remains a valuable asset that will defy time. Our spiritual way is in its infancy, one might say, and it will assert itself in the future, to last much longer than is imaginable today. It differs from religions, which impose their laws. Here, the context is different; rules are proposed for the good of each one and for a better approach to this extraordinary practice. It bears its fruit, you can be sure. The brothers and sisters who join us can evaluate its benefits. Over time, many of them are rediscovering the very essence of this teaching, so simple and yet so effective. This solid base enables them to truly advance while avoiding the meanderings of ignorance, which too often considerably retards the evolution of each being in search of the Divine. Nothing is to be neglected; Sahaj Marg is an opportunity offered to humans to advance wisely – an opportunity bearing the best fruit. Such are our wishes.
