Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, November 11, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

So many contacts over the years! Here, the bonds of the heart are decisive. It is not merely about writing down a message; love generates and ennobles this task, making it unique among its kind. It will remain so over time, you can be sure, and enlightened minds will readily recognise it. It takes very little to distinguish these writings from others. Our dear Kamlesh appreciates them and, like his predecessor, he finds inspiration in them, quite naturally. The alliance of the united Masters is attentive to him, even if it cannot fully spare him the numerous hazards of this Mission that is very demanding but equally rewarding and even sanctifying. This role is not an insignificant one. So many souls are in need in this world and on other planes of consciousness, where the unquenchable thirst for the Divine is constantly manifesting.

Much remains to be achieved. Time must bring about what is needed within the Mission for its fulfilment in the world. Beyond all social barriers, what must come about is being developed by divine will. In hindsight, the effects are quite striking, and they encourage us to continue in this direction with even greater strength and determination. May all our brothers and sisters fully realise what this Mission represents and adhere to it completely. Here, what is being built will mark the world, and for a very long time.

Blessings to all, from the united Masters.
