Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 13, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

The accumulation of days brings its sum of experiences, all of which are beneficial for the human being, who becomes incarnate to learn and grow strong in the face of multiple and varied trials. "Doesn't everything have its raison d'être!"

This fact is not easy to accept. The complexity of a life finds its justification when the final assessment comes. How many incarnations does it take to satisfy this need for excellence! Our committed abhyasis are working in this direction; the apparently small means at their disposal still help them considerably. Even if human reasoning cannot grasp the whole truth, reality is there and it prevails in its own manner. Following a spiritual path such as the one proposed by Sahaj Marg denotes a real aspiration for the Divine and the deep conviction that such a path is right and can help one progress. Isn't this what matters? There are so many gaps to be filled as well as spaces and sensitive points to be revealed. There lies the purpose of such an approach. It can lead far in the discovery, within oneself, of a potential that has been ignored up until now. Becoming aware of the need to act, with real means, confirms this inner call that has been neglected for so long. Life in the long term holds surprises; when the soul opens up to the higher reality, it transforms the being and awakens within him or her this profound aspiration for the Divine. Thus begins a True journey.
