Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 21, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Repetitions are necessary, it should be remembered. In them lies the very principle of life. Everything here below develops in this way. Following a spiritual path requires one's daily engagement in order to move towards the sacred edifice the soul aspires to reach, the central axis determined by this divine energy which is capable of working wonders.

This aspect of things seems quite unreal for a fledgling aspirant. Over years of assiduous practice, one feels within oneself this progress, this surrender, whose delightful effects offer so much promise.

Diving into oneself, into the heart of silence – there lies a real delight. The soul is in ecstasy and the seeker finally realises how much the entire being is carried by the grace that dwells within during such unique moments.

This mystical flight is not ordinary. It aims to sensitize our aspirants to the fact that they hold within themselves a real treasure, one they can attain through perseverance, supported by the incarnate Master. The divine energy he embodies enables him to detect this call in every being committed to this unique approach. Many souls are rising up who will one day reach the celestial fields and revel in true joy, that which cannot be explained and which transports the soul to prodigious heights. Thus is achieved the liberating cycle for which we are ceaselessly working so that humanity can truly progress. May all understand this need and the opportunity being offered to them in this life to make real progress.

Blessings to all.
