Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, February 15, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

True love – one that does not change and that illuminates one's life – is an indescribable blessing. From life to life it is encountered again, and it brings significant guidance in this divine scheme whose many situations offer enriching experiences for the unfolding of the human being. Everything is intended and necessary for a person's evolution. Nothing is ever simple, but where would the challenge lie if this were not the case?

An incarnate Master plays a special role in this matter – his responsibilities go far beyond appearances. He is important, please believe it, his action is decisive in each person's journey. Time sufficiently demonstrates the positive results of this approach in which a relatively simple practice is followed by major effects.

In the future, it will accelerate, in accordance with changes that will benefit this world. Nothing will be easy in this regard. Life here below must conform with the divine plans, which will not fail to materialise and transform life on this planet. It will do so for the better, which is gratifying for our very many brothers and sisters, who are preparing themselves in the best manner through the practice of Sahaj Marg. When followed well, it transforms the seeker, very subtly; in retrospect, this matter is very satisfactory. Perseverance and fervour are more effective than grand speeches, but those are not useless either. Doesn't everything have its raison d'être! So it is.
