Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, March 13, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Your long journey of suffering is not in vain, you can rest assured. In keeping with the divine order, everything is to be earned; it is not easy for humans to consider this requirement that fosters the evolution of each one.

It does take time to understand and accept these principles. Everything is counted and so willed by this higher power, decisive in the Karma of each human being. Diligently following a spiritual path saves precious time. Each incarnation is important in that process, as it prepares the next one; it creates a climate favourable to what the next incarnation will be, for the good of the entity concerned.

So many aspects are to be considered in this area. The complexity of life keeps its mysteries, and the human being must be content to progress according to his or her own capacities in order to reach the next steps, which have long been planned and outlined. What is to be will be; following the Sahaj Marg way testifies to a certain level of attainment, necessarily leading the seeker to the approach that best meets his or her aspirations. It is so beautiful, so satisfying to see, through the results obtained over the long run, the number of people invested in this process to reach a higher level, thanks to this exceptional method. The number of abhyasis is growing, as is the aura of this Mission, which is positioning itself better and better on the journey towards what is essential. Commitment, perseverance and faith are decisive in this matter. Our guidance and blessings converge to produce the best results.

So it is.
