Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, April 13, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Surrender, which is extolled in our Mission, is an important starting point for the progress and personal journey of the abhyasi. It takes time to act, to harmonise the subtle bodies and ensure that the best is brought about for each of our abhyasis. We keep a careful eye on their journey; time produces conclusive results in this quest for the Divine. The union of hearts brings harmony, the life force – that force which operates, transforms and creates this unparalleled egregore. It cannot be described, only experienced; to benefit from it is a divine gift, a grace.

These words, rarely used in these messages, are nonetheless suited to the situation. Time does its work; yesterday's Mission has created the one of today, and tomorrow's will emerge even more in this tormented world – a world in search of a space of peace and love, within a context that is in many ways unsettling. Due to a troubling vibratory environment, a severe pollution at all levels, this world does not naturally foster the blossoming of a human being's refined nature – that nature which aspires for the Divine from its innermost depths. The heart, seat of the soul, focuses on a personal gain, which asks only to open out and grow spiritually. Some people withdraw from the world, while others take on their everyday lives and include an active approach capable of producing the best results. The sincere and motivated abhyasi succeeds, sometimes even beyond his or her hopes. All is well this way.

Blessings to all.
