Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 24, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Forget this world, its nuisances of all kinds. See only the positive, the nobility of the soul, that which is obtained when truly desired. So many obstacles must be overcome here below, in order to brighten the outlook of this world of matter – a world from which the best within the human being does eventually emerge. The divine laws are extremely rigorous in their final outcome; nothing is done without reason, everything is counted and fulfilled as it should be. This aspect is reassuring, in a way; divine laws do not exist in vain. Without them, chaos would occur on this Earth. Humans are not wise enough to decide their own fate. They do not grasp reality as it truly is. Humanity is progressing, and this fact is reassuring. A different world is in the making.

May you all really think about it, and somehow call forth this so very special vibration. To all, the best.
