Whispers from The Brighter World

Enough testimonies are given to you on the benefits that these messages generate. Their action goes far beyond words; their vibration affects the subtle points of the being, operating in its own manner where the human being does not expect it. Humans still have so much to discover about the resources that are theirs, and that they do not even imagine in the current era. A time will come when everything will fall into place so that an unprecedented transformation can occur and enable the attainment of the desired goal. In a certain manner, these messages are preparing it. We do not claim to possess the truth, only to lead our abhyasis to the important changes that will come about, by fostering a vibration consistent with the subtlety of the times to come. All this may seem quite confusing, and yet the apparent stagnation of this time prepares what will come, in accordance with a general transformation at all levels of consciousness. May each proceed, while doing their best, and all will be well.
