Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, October 15, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Your many sufferings over the course of your life are not unknown to us. Your journey has not been ordinary, and above all it is well hidden from the eyes of human beings. This is difficult to bear and, at the same time, rewarding at certain levels of consciousness. We support you as best we can on this long journey. You are carried with love, be sure of that – you are so dear to our hearts.

This painful passage on this Earth will not have been in vain, as proven by all these messages. A next and final incarnation will be the culmination of a long journey here below. Beautiful and great things are to be achieved, and you will do it masterfully. Have courage, my dear daughter, we are at your side, as always. Be at peace. It will be a great joy when we meet again. Take heart, be blessed.
