Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, December 7, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Let us remain, for the moment, at the limits of current knowledge. The main thing is to progress, to truly advance towards the goal we aim for here, for the good of each of our abhyasis. All of them attract our attention; the involvement of each one differs, and that is in the order of things. All incarnate beings have potential and advance at their own pace, even though in Sahaj Marg we have been helping them all, with equal attention. The results obtained delight us; we see many souls awakening to higher consciousness, which they themselves did not imagine, and they benefit all the more from such an opportunity! Grand rituals are absent, yet although everything takes place in silence and contemplation, the results are very convincing – much more than if it were otherwise. Each of the spiritual paths in this world has its own features and follows its course in its own manner. Sahaj Marg is very productive – we can emphasise it here where we see so many souls blossoming and joining the circle of the privileged, in such a special domain. We have good reason to rejoice in the results; the assessments, as we make them in our way, are not yet perceptible on the human level. No matter, all is well in this sacred space, and it satisfies the powers that support us in this Mission, so special in every way.

All are supported and so very blessed.
