Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 23, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, do you realise the number of messages received? It does not seem so, over the years this ritual has become so natural to you. Your heart calls and we respond to it. These writings are the fruit of an uncommon love between us, and this will remain unique, you can be sure. Sahaj Marg is following its path, promising as it is in more ways than one. The future will highlight further the benefits it provides. What is being built in Hyderabad will also mark this way – history shows us how very much these great edifices of the past have marked it; they will remain, as will this one, material evidence ensuring the permanence of this place.

Humanity needs points of reference; they are necessary for the collective memory. So many facts and great events live on in the history of this world and are valuable in more ways than one. Sahaj Marg started small, as the greatest paths have done to get where they are today. Our path is making its way – it will become radiant in the future, for good reasons. 'What must be will be.' May each of our abhyasis take advantage of the present moment and not neglect what is offered to them, even if they do not truly realise the importance of their endeavour.

To all of you our endless blessings.

Babuji
